

Untitled

by George Vukelich

Below the surface, a cloud of fry black bass babies are swimming by.
To one side, their father stays watching that not too many die.

Here is the essence of their days
Patrolling in the hostile bays.